Nervous Periodical Headaches

This trouble commonly called "sick headache, is said to be due to the retention of urea in the system. Often it is stated that a poor condition of the blood is a cause of these headaches, or that it is a nervous condition; and in certain cases, no doubt this is true.

Where treatment is demanded, it is more for the pain than anything else, and Dr. A. F. Behelischmidt of Louisville, has found anti-kaminis tablets to give prompt and satisfactory relief. "Rest should be insisted upon," he says, "and the patient should go to bed, darken the room, and all the attendants and family should be as quiet as possible. An emetic will sometimes shorten the attack. The bowels should be kept open with "actoids"; a hot bath and a thorough rub-down with a coarse towel, often give grateful relief. Two anti-kamina tablets when the first signs appear, will usually prevent the attack. During an attack, one tablet every hour or two will shorten the attack and relieve the usual nausea and vomiting." These tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They are also unexcelled for nervous head-sches, neuralgis and all pains.

HUGHES WON'T REPLY TO WILSON SHAFTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—On the eve of election day, with the campaign over to all intents and purposes and with nothing left but to await the verdict of the voters, the candidates are resting after their wearying efforts, each expressing himself as confident of victory.

Charles E. Hughes, at the Hotel Astor, is supremely confident that by tomorrow night he will know he is the President-elect.

President elect.

President Wilson, at Shadow Lawn, received reports from Democratic leaders throughout the country that made him feel sure of victory.

Vance McCormick, Democratic national chairman issued a statement saying Mr. Wilson was certain to be elected and went into considerable detail to prove the accuracy of the Democratic canvass.

william R. Williox, the Republican national chairman, said simply that Mr. McCormick's published claims were too absurd to require an answer. If Charles E, Hughes should be defeated tomorrow he will be the most astonished man in the United States. No aspirant for the Presidency was ever more quietly confident of victory. So far as Mr. Hughes is concerned, nothing remains except to tabulate his pitralities.

Refuses Reply To President.

For carefully thought out reasons he declined to make a statement in reply to President Wilson's final effort an in-declined to make a statement in reply to President Wilson's final effort an interview which predicted the triumph of invisible government if Mr. Hughes wins and asserting that the happiness of the American people depends upon the relection of him. Woodrow Wison.

Mr. Hughes read this statement down to its last word, read it with real amusement, not irritation. Then, when the reporters called on him at the Hotel Astor to ask for some sort of rejoinier to Mr. Wilson, he merely laughed, saying that he guessed the people could tize up the President's statement for themselves. He declined to be quoted for any kind of comment.

Privately to a few friends Mr. Hughes communicated his reasons for ending the campaign Saturday night and for ignoring the President's assumptions, assertions, and insinuations. He is so sure of victory that he feels that it would be an anti-clinax to a vigorous eampaign for him to take Mr. Wilson's statement, pick it to pieces and disclose all of its sophistry and egotlem.

He takes the stand that the people have made up their minds and that any further rejoinders to the President would be lost effort, indicating lack of confidence rather than assurance of success. He feels that he has conducted a lignified and courteous campaign and that the voters are so well aware of lust where he stands that no further definitions or promises need be made. The wind-up of the campaign here in new York delighted Mr. Hughes. He as amazed at the size of the parade conducted by the Hughes Business Men's eague and at the volume of enthusiusm that came from this tremendous conducted by the Hughes Business Men's cague and at the volume of enthusiusm that came from this tremendous aggregation of voters representing all businesses, trades, and professions.

He liked the big hugsh at Madison Square Garden, and was frankly interested in getting exact reports on how long the crowd cheered for him. It is violating no confidence to say that Mr. fughes believes the vote of New York sity will sorely disappoint the Demoratic leaders.

Nobody could get a word out of him

Nobody could get a word out of him bout the many straw votes that have been taken, practically all of which forecast the President's re-election, but he laughed heartily when some one remarked that the headlines on these straw vote tabulations were all for Wilstein but that the artifunction was all for Wilstein but that the artifunction was all for which the artifunction was all for the artifunction. n but that the arithmetic was all fo

This much is certain. Mr. Hugher believes from personal figures that the Republican party will carry New York, New Jersey, Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois, and that there is no reason to worry about the many other States that have Republican leanings.

that have Republican leanings.

Tomorrow, election day, he will be up with the chickens and will cast his vote in a laundry in Elighth avenue, between Forty-fourth street and Forty-fifth street, as near 7 s. max possible. He always votes early and will make a point of being among the first few tomorrow.

He has made no plans for the period between November 7 and March 4 although, with Mrs. Hughes, he has discussed the suitability of various places in which a President-elect night rest and attend to the business of building a Cabinet and writing an inaugural address.

Southern California has been mentioned as a possibility, No has Florida and there has been some talk of his going to North Carolina—to Pinehurst or Asheville. The point is that he expects to have to select a retreat.

The United States cannot recognize Poland as an independent power, at least until the conclusion of peace, it was stated at the State Department today. Regardless of the reported action of tire Central powers in proclaiming Poland an independent kingdom, status, from the standpoint of the United States, is still "captured territors," and her future position must be settled by the peace negotiations. No official report of the action of Germany and Austria yet has reached the department.

Independence Proclaimed.

The Austro-Hungarian and German Emperors have officially proclaimed independence for Poland. Official announcements made in Vienna and in Berlin last night confirmed earlier reports to the same effect.

The actual setting up of the autonomous Polish state will not take place until peace is restored, but the word of "his majesty the German Kaiser and of his majesty the Emperor of and of his majesty the Emperor of Austria and Apostolic King of Hungary, who, inspired by firm confidence in the final victory of their arms and guided by the wish to lead to a happy future the territories of Poland, torn from Russia under heavy sacrifices by their brave troops, an autonomous state with a hereditary monarchy and constitutional government, is to be considered not as a conditional promise but as a solemn and irrevocable guarantee.

The most startling development in the news of the plans for the new Poland concerned the frontiers of the future state. Emperor Francis Joseph practically informed the Austrian premier, according to an official statement received here, that the new Poland would consist entirely of Russian territory. At least he said that Galicia would have self-government after the war, thus intimating that it would continue under the Austrian crown. This is taken here to put an end to the Polish hopes of a united Poland, compared of Russian, Austrian, and German Polands.

The step is interpreted as evidence that the central powers feel as evidence that the central powers feel strong enough from a nilitary standpoint to realize, the task thus begun. There is apparently some dispute between the two rulers as to who shall gover the new state. The Kulser, according to reports, seeks to make a Prussian prince the king, while Francis Joseph wants to proclaim himself the monarch. Either, it is said, would order a general mobilization to defend the independence of the country against the Russians or any one else.
